

THE McCLUNG AWARD

An award of one hundred dollars is offered by the Society to the contributor of the paper that is judged to be the best of those printed in each number of the Journal of East Tennessee (formerly the East Tennessee Historical Society's Publications). To be eligible for the award, papers must relate to some phase of the history of Tennessee and must cite sources. Originality, scholarship, power of interpretation, clarity of expression, logical arrangement, and literacy form shall be the tests applied by the judges. Papers submitted by any officers of the Society are ineligible.

These awards are in memory of Calvin Morgan and Barbara Adair McClung, deceased, founders of a notable collection of Tennessee and Southern history at Lawson McGhee Library, Knoxville. The winners of the previous awards and their contributions are:
